

Contributors' workshop for the *Research Handbook on Law and Marxism

University of Toronto Centre for Ethics
Larkin Building, 15 Devonshire Place, Toronto
Saturday, 12 January 2019

10:00 — Paul O'Connell and Umut Özsü's opening remarks

10:10 — Paul O'Connell, "The Point Is To Change It: Marxist Engagements With Law, State, and Rights" (via Skype)

10:40 — Susan Dianne Brophy, "Law as Artifice? Implications for Transition to Capitalism Debates"

11:10 — Coffee break

11:20 — Rémi Bachand, "Taking Political Economy Seriously: What Marxist Analyses of Capitalism Bring to the Understanding of International Law"

11:50 — Umut Özsü, "The Necessity of Contingency: Method and Marxism in International Legal History"

12:20 — Lunch

2:00 — Rob Hunter, "Marxist Critiques of Constitutionalism: Problems and Prospects"

2:30 — Rafael Khachaturian, "The State as Social Relation: Poulantzas and the Reconstruction of Marxist Political Theory"

3:00 — Alessandra Asteriti, "Gramsci's Concept of the State: An International Perspective"

3:30 — Coffee break

3:40 — Igor Shoikhedbrod, "Beyond Fetishism and Instrumentalism: Rethinking Marxism and the Rule of Law in the Era of Neoliberalism"

4:10 — Honor Brabazon, "Nomocratic Social Change: Reassessing the Transformative Potential of Law in Neoliberal Times"

4:40 — Brief concluding session